INTRODUCTORY NOTES

Sheet music seems to have found no place in the various classifications of Lincolniana compiled by bibliographers. Possibly the selections containing both words and music should have received recognition along with other printed leaflets, but then, of course, instrumental music would not be eligible. Single sheets printed on one side, containing Lincoln verses and sometimes music, are properly listed as broadsides and not included here. As far as we can learn, this check-list is the first attempt to compile and identify sheet music, and might be called a preliminary study in this field.

The primary source of information for this work has been the music collection in the Lincoln National Life Foundation Library. Valuable assistance has also been received from the Lincoln collections at Brown University, Illinois State Historical Library, and the Library of Congress. Special recognition should be given to Alice Burry of the Foundation staff who has been largely responsible for the recording and systematizing of the items.

The following information is presented to clarify the arrangement of the material:

- (1) In the listing of variants only one or two outstanding differences are listed in order to conserve on space, and often the obvious words are abbreviated. The copyright date is in most instances given after the title and is not listed again after the variants unless there is a change in the date.
- (2) Asterisks denote those songs about which we have no information other than the composer's name and the title.
- (3) A name appearing in brackets after the song title indicates the author of words, and, of course, is frequently the same as the composer.
- (4) Each item is numbered so that composer and song title may be located from list of authors of words.
